DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 10 recites the limitation "the injector means" in line 3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by HOGAN (US #6,558,352).

Regarding claim 1, Hogan teaches "A method for administering specific amounts of medicinal substances to animals, using an injection apparatus having steps comprising: a. placing an animal into an area where is can be immobilized for purposes of obtaining an accurate determination as to mass (#30); b. weighing the animal to determine mass (#47) and sending this data to a controller (#70); c. computing the correct dosage of medicinal substances relating directly to the actual weight of the animal within the controller (#80), and using this data to determine the metering requirements for the medicinal substances; d. activating a pump (#161) that will dispense a metered amount of medicinal substance as the determined dosage level to an injector means; e. inserting the injection means into the animal and injecting the medicinal substance into the animal (#50).

Regarding claim 2, the animal is selected prior to weighing and immobilizing the animal (Step #240).

Regarding claim 3, a separate metering means is used to restrict the amount of medicinal substance to the injector means (#166).

Regarding claim 4, the injector means can be actuated manually (Col 9 line 21).

Regarding claim 5, the injector means can be actuated mechanically (Col 10 line 18).

Regarding claim 6, the medicinal substance is stored in a reservoir, able to be activated by a pump (#161).

Regarding claim 7, the data for determining the proper dosage is preloaded into the controller (Step #236).

Regarding claim 8, Hogan teaches "A method for administering specific amounts of medicinal substances to animals, using a spray apparatus having steps comprising: a. placing an animal into an area where it can be immobilized for purposes of obtaining an accurate determination as to mass (#30); b. weighing the animal to determine mass (#47) and sending this data to a controller (#70); c. computing the correct dosage of medicinal substances relating directly to the actual weight of the animal within the controller (#80), and using this data to determine the metering requirements for the medicinal substances; d. activating a pump (#161) that will dispense a metered amount of medicinal substance as the determined dosage level to a sprayer means; e. positioning the sprayer means so that the medicinal substance can be applied onto the animal (#170)

Regarding claim 9, the animal is selected prior to weighing and immobilizing the animal (Step #240).

Regarding claim 10, a separate metering means is used to restrict the amount of medicinal substance to the sprayer means (#170).

Regarding claim 4, the sprayer means can be actuated manually (Col 9 line 21).

Regarding claim 5, the sprayer means can be actuated mechanically (Col 10 line 18).

Regarding claim 6, the medicinal substance is stored in a reservoir, able to be activated by a pump (#161).

Regarding claim 7, the data for determining the proper dosage is preloaded into the controller (Step #236).
